The Culper Ring was a spy ring organized by America Colonel Benjamin Tallmadge under orders from General George Washington in the summer of 1778 during British occupation of New York City at the height of the American Revolutionary War. The "Culper" name was suggested by Washington who devised it from Culpeper County, Virginia.

The Ring's task was to send messages to General Washington about the activities of the British Army in New York City, the British headquarters and base of operations. The Culper Ring provided valuable information to General Washington about the British activities.
